Jill Cohen, also known as The Cannaboss Lady, has opened the first woman-owned weed boutique to Essex County.

Elevated by the Cannaboss Lady, the brand's new legal weed concept, is now open at 9 Highland Place, Suite #1 in Maplewood, in the same building as its award-winning CBD shop.

The interior of the shop gives a 1960s salon vibe with its pink-and-green color scheme, vintage furniture and chevron wallpaper. The waiting area, featuring a rotating art exhibit, is where guests can learn about the products that are available for purchase and how to use them.

The living room style sales floor is not built for large crowds and long lines — it's meant to give each customer a unique one-on-one cannabis experience.

"I am passionate about the transformative power of cannabis and set out to offer a refined, luxurious environment for a 5-star experience," said Cohen, whose store was recognized at the NJ Cannabis Insider 2023 Awards as the CBD Shop of the Year.

"I brought together a team of budtenders who will guide you on a wellness journey, reducing anxiety and pain while bringing happiness and healing,” she said. “I hope my customers feel a higher level of wellness every time they visit the CannaBoss Lady!”
